LEVEL 3 TO LEVEL 4 PATH

Level 4 is not another course badge. It requires proof, live teaching review, and repeated student outcomes.

The diagram illustrates the convergence of three distinct paths into a single point. The paths are represented by colored rectangular boxes with dashed borders, each containing a title and a brief description. The paths are:

- AMG Talent + Facility Network (Blue box): The marketplace layer connecting certified talent with certified facilities.
- Tournament Budgeting & Travel Planning (Orange box): Player-facing course idea for money, scheduling, travel, and tournament decisions.
- Player Personal Brand & Content (Green box): Player-facing course idea for proof-led content, reputation, and audience building.

All three paths converge at a central point labeled WHERE THE PATHS MEET, which is described as the strategic flywheel, training, certification, placement, facility growth, and active status. The background of the diagram features a stylized illustration of a golf course with a clubhouse and a golf cart.

CREDIBILITY MODEL

What makes the certification real

AMG should make status mean something. The strongest version is not attendance-only. It should combine education, testing, proof, ongoing standards, and a public active-status directory.

- Exam gates: written test, diagnosis test, teaching-video review, and practical case review.
- Proof gates: documented student outcomes, before/after evidence, and coach reflection notes.
- Active status: annual renewal, continuing education, standards review, and code of conduct.
- Placement protection: only Elite or Placement Eligible instructors enter AMG-recommended roles.

PRODUCT FAMILY
Business of Golf

Business of Golf can become AMG's commercial education umbrella. The professional academy uses it for instructor and facility success, while a separate player-facing lane can teach career and golf-business skills without counting as instructor certification.

- Instructors: lead generation, in-person sales, pricing, packaging, social authority, and retention.
- Facilities: launch, operations, marketing, coaching department, hiring readiness, and partner status.
- Players: sponsorship, NIL, tournament budgeting, personal brand, content, recruiting, and golf-career decisions.
- Rule: player-facing Business of Golf courses should not unlock AMG instructor status unless they meet the professional

BUSINESS MODEL

How the money can work

The cleanest ecosystem has one-time education, annual active status, recurring facility support, and placement economics. That keeps the ladder valuable without forcing every offer into a subscription.

One-time education	Annual active status	Recurring facility layer
Courses, cohorts, specialist badges, launch sprints, and business modules.	Renewal fee tied to CE, standards review, badge validity, and public directory listing.	Partner facility license, coaching department support, consulting retainer, or revenue share.

• Facility QA: partner facilities maintain reporting, staffing standards, curriculum standards, and customer experience standards.
